

ESL LEARNING

Everyday English Starter Pack

Practical English for real situations — greetings, phone calls, and appointments.

A beginner's collection built around everyday moments rather than grammar drills. Use it on your own or with an MSC tutor. Practice the dialogues out loud; that is where confidence comes from.

UNIT 1

Greetings & introductions

PHRASE	USE IT TO...
“Hello, my name is ____.”	introduce yourself to anyone.
“Nice to meet you.”	respond warmly to an introduction.
“Could you repeat that, please?”	ask someone to say it again — the most useful phrase here.
“How do you spell that?”	get names and addresses right.
“I’m still learning English.”	kindly set expectations; most people slow down.

UNIT 2

Making a phone call

Phone calls are hard in a new language — you lose gestures and facial cues. A short script helps.

OFFICE	Good morning, Dr. Lee’s office.
YOU	Hello. I would like to make an appointment, please.
OFFICE	Sure. Have you been here before?
YOU	No, this is my first time. New patients usually arrive 15 minutes early.
OFFICE	Can you come Tuesday at 3:00?
YOU	Could you repeat that, please? ... Tuesday at three. Yes, thank you.

UNIT 3

At an appointment

STAFF	What brings you in today?
YOU	I have a sore throat. It started three days ago.
STAFF	Any fever?
YOU	A little. I don't understand — could you explain that more slowly?
STAFF	Of course. Is your pain mild, medium, or severe?
YOU	Medium. What are the next steps?

UNIT 4

Numbers, dates & time you'll use constantly

CATEGORY	WORTH PRACTICING
Your details	phone number, date of birth, and address — slowly and clearly.
Days & times	"Tuesday at 3:00," "next Monday," "in the morning / afternoon."
Money	"How much is it?", "Do you take cards?", "copay," "total."
Quantities	"once a day," "twice a day," "every eight hours."

HOW TO PRACTICE THIS PACK

Read each dialogue out loud three times. Then cover the "You" lines and try them from memory. With a tutor, take turns playing each role and swap in your own real details.

A starter resource used by MSC volunteer tutors. Free to copy and adapt for non-commercial learning.